ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Systems and methods for enabling automobile dealers select a lease for a prospective customer are disclosed. The selection is made from an extensive database of leases comprising lease packages from a plurality of financial institutions and other sources. The selection is determined according to a series of complex calculations designed to meet customer criteria, maximize dealer profit, and minimize waiting-time.